MP CALLS FOR MEMORIAL TO DOGS OF WAR

One of Hampshire's top politicians is backing plans for a national memorial to military dogs. Dr Julian Lewis, Tory MP for New Forest East is supporting proposals put forward by the National Military Working Dogs Trust.

The memorial is due to be built at Brynford in North Wales. If the scheme goes ahead, the mausoleum-shaped monument will feature four bronze statues next to plaques commemorating Service animals.

Dr Lewis said: "The outstanding bravery of the military Service dogs has gone unrecognised for too long ... At the event [in Westminster], I heard of the truly heroic acts these dogs have done to protect our Armed Forces."
